

Dr. ALISIA MOUTRY

Transformational Facilitator and Team Builder

Dr. Alisia Moutry is an award-winning transformational facilitator. Her proven methods help close the divide between what you dream of doing and what you actually do.

When working with Dr. Moutry, you will find yourself empowered to maximize your potential, leverage your strengths, operate at maximum capacity, and gain measurable results. She listens, asks the right questions, conducts needs assessments, communicates, and engages with individuals and teams to guide organizations to the next level.

As the owner of 4AM Consulting, Dr. Moutry helps people move the ideas and goals they form in the middle of the night to reality. She provides facilitation, coaching, and professional development services through one-on-one meetings, focus groups, and training sessions.

Dr. Moutry relies heavily on varied work experiences gained in working with teams at urban and suburban school districts, small- and medium-size businesses, and in higher education. She leverages expertise in data analysis, teaming structures, family and community engagement, culturally responsive practices, visioning, K-12 educational needs, leadership development, collecting stakeholder input, and active listening to drive progress. Her specialties include developing multi-tiered systems of support with an equity focus, visioning, management leadership skills.

In addition to running 4AM Consulting, Dr. Moutry serves as the Co-Director of the Wisconsin-Minnesota Comprehensive Center in Region 10, which falls under the umbrella of the University of Wisconsin-Madison-Wisconsin Center for Education Research.
